COURSE DESCRIPTION

An examination of the mission, goals and objectives of professional mental health organizations. Students learn and apply codes of ethics, laws, and regulations pertaining to counseling, and professional standards of performance. Required core course.

Students also explore client welfare; professional competence, professional development, personal wellness, and establishing limits and boundaries with clients and colleagues. Ensuring client confidentiality, responding to subpoenas, ensuring cultural sensitivity and credentialing, using model agreements that can be adapted to practice in a variety of service settings, and establishing professional relationships will be explored.

Course Objectives:

Heighten self-awareness by giving attention to personal assumptions, values, biases, strengths and limitations.

Examine the pervasive nature of ethical issues in therapeutic relationships.

Explore ethical decision models that lead to professional practice.

Examine the ACA ethical standards and five moral principles as applied to selected case studies.

Explore legal point of view and history of selected legal concepts from therapeutic practice.

Apply laws, regulations, ACA ethical code, moral principles, and client rights to a professional standard of care. ("Do no harm to the client").

Discuss the difference between mandatory ethics and aspirational ethics.

Learn to make applications regarding confidentiality and privilege.

Develop a personal model of ethical behavior including personal values, choices, assumptions, and moral conviction.

Explore personal theoretical orientation and how it relates to ethics

Methods of Instruction

This will be an interactive course which includes an elevated level of classroom participation utilizing lecture and instruction, videos, quizzes, case studies, student presentations and article reviews. Students will be required to integrate content, knowledge, and application in practice. Active participation is essential to your learning. Due to the emphasis on experiential learning, lateness and absences cannot be made up. Written assignments are due on the date indicated in the course schedule. Students will lose 1 point for every day over the due date.

Basis for Student Evaluation

This is a graduate level course that uses collaborative activities as one of its learning methods. Anything other than your best effort will negatively impact not only you, but your classmates as well. Since this is a graduate level course you will be required to read all of the assigned material and know it well enough to apply it to situations that you can be sure will arise in your professional life. To aid students in becoming familiar with such application, the following will be required for a final grade in this course:

1. Each student will attend all classes and participate in all discussions. The success of this course for each student depends on appropriate engagement with the materials presented either by the instructor or other students. After each class session the instructor will award up to 4 points for that particular session. An absence, no matter what the reason, will result in no points awarded for that session. Total possible points to be awarded in this area: 36.
2. Students will work in partnership with others to develop a power point presentation for the class on a relevant topic. It is expected that the presentation include a learning activity for the class that focuses on an ethical dilemma. Possible topics for these presentations are: The suicidal client; Managed care and confidentiality in counseling; Sexual feelings in the counseling relationship; The aftermath of the Tarasoff case; Feminist perspectives of ethical decision making in therapy; HIV/AIDS -- Confidentiality vs. public right to know; Dual relationships; Multicultural counseling and ethical issues; Special laws/problems in minor aged clients; Rural issues and ethical issues;

Religion/Psychology of religion and counseling; Issues in assisted suicide; Marriage & family counseling; Counseling adolescent clients; Counseling with undocumented citizens; Internet and phone counseling; Counseling with elderly clients; and other ideas generated by the course participants. This presentation should be roughly between 30 and 40 minutes in duration. Each student and/or team will be assigned a date to present the assigned topic and should have examples, handouts, and other materials that could be used as reference materials. Students should provide paper copies for the instructor and classmates with an electronic copy being provided to the instructor. Each team member will share equally in points awarded by the instructor. Total possible points to be awarded in this area: 54.

3. There will be weekly quizzes during the term, each of which will focus on a finite set of readings from the required texts above. Quizzes will be multiple choice, true/false and/or short answer which will be worth 10 points each. Each student will be allowed to take scores from the top 4 quizzes. Total possible points to be awarded in this area: 40.
4. Each student will produce the following documents that can be included in their portfolio:
 - 1) a Mission Statement
 - 2) an Informed Consent Form
 - 3) a written plan detailing an ethical dilemma problem solving process

These documents will then be presented to the class. The idea here is to create your own Mission Statement as if you were setting up a private practice as Licensed Mental Health Practitioner. Refer to the ACA Code of Ethics for help with this assignment. If you have previously created a personal philosophy of counseling statement, integrate this with your Mission Statement. For our purposes, a Mission Statement is no longer than two sentences and is a succinct embodiment of your beliefs and assumptions about what you will do as a practitioner. In creating an Informed Consent document you will use with clients, refer to The Counselor and the Law, pp. 147 -149. It is my hope that the development of these documents will serve you in the future as a significant step toward thinking ethically about the application of yourself to what you “do” and how you behave in professional contexts. Developing a well-thought out ethical dilemma problem solving process will establish valuable groundwork to assist you in working in the mental health field. Total possible points to be awarded in this area: 30.

5. Each student will produce a review on a 3 research articles. The articles should be related in some way to ethics, morality, and ethical decision-making and can come from any of a number of sources, including journals, books, or appropriate internet sites. If you are not sure if an article you are interested in is suitable, ask the instructor. The review you write should be from 3 to 5 pages in length, and will include a comprehensive statement of the rationale used by the author(s), your analysis of the content of the articles, and a summary of its impact on your thinking about ethics and ethical decision-making. Total possible points to be awarded in this area: 40.

Total points to be awarded = 200

- A. Professional Development: Students will be required to complete a self-assessment upon completion of the course. The outline for this will be provided and the assessment will be due with the final exam. The final will be considered incomplete without the self-assessment and subject to loss of point for lateness.

There are a total of 200 points possible in this course. The following table represents the points required for grading assignment:

200 Points earned	Percentage of total
98-100%	A+
91-97 %	A
90%	A-
88-89%	B+
81-87%	B
80%	B-

Expectations of Students

In addition to 38 hours of classroom time, student should expect to spend a minimum of 70 hours outside of the classroom reading, reviewing research, and preparing for in class group work. It is suggested that:

- 1) Students read course assignments and research articles assigned prior to the class session and are expected to apply the concepts during discussions and the experiential portion of the class.
- 2) Students are expected to be integrative learners, that is they are expected to present questions and interests related to the class readings, etc. Not all readings will be discussed in detail, which requires students to use the readings as a guide for learning, and be prepared to interact with the readings as a background for their interaction.
- 3) Students are expected to be active learners. This means that students should arrive on time, have cell phones and computers off during class, and remain in class throughout the duration of the session.
- 4) Students are expected to experience some discomfort as they work to gain skills.
- 5) Students are expected to be respectful, open to feedback and willing to provide feedback, willing to role play clients or assume leadership roles, and be open to both personal and professional change.
- 6) Students will be expected to abide by all ethical standards governing confidentiality and professionalism.
- 7) Students will be expected to use resources in addition to the text to enhance learning and complete academic tasks.
